Walk Like A Man

SBS, 7.30pm

As the All Blacks and the Wallabies battle it out for the Bledisloe Cup, this enjoyable doco tells the story of another, lesser known rugby union tournament. The Bingham Cup is a competition between the world's best homosexual rugby teams. It was named after gay rugby player Mark Bingham, who perished aboard United Airlines Flight 93, on September 11, 2001, after bravely trying to thwart the terrorists. Former rugby league star-turned-actor Ian Roberts, the first Australian footballer to publicly come out, narrates as the San Francisco Fog and the Sydney Convicts compete for the 2006 trophy.
